Join Jacquetta Haley of Haley Research at the Historic Abraham Staats House for a special program exploring how rooms looked and how people furnished them depending on status, cultural and regional influences. Learn about what people did – and didn't -do and how they lived in 18th and early 19th c in New Jersey. The lecture will include a walk around the rooms of the historic Abraham Staats House to talk about how the Staats family lived in the house. Light refreshments served.

Ms. Haley has worked as a free-lance museum consultant for over twenty years, specializing in interpretation and research. Her work includes basic research for program development, furnishings plans, and strategic planning for historic sites looking to reevaluate their existing strengths and refocus their interpretive goals.
